NAWCWD Organization

The NAWCWD organization is divided into six "competencies" that are integrated across sites and functional areas. Many of NAWCWD's individual programs and functions are consolidated into single organizations with facilities and capabilities integrated between two or more sites. This integration also encompasses the Naval Western Test Range Complex, which is composed of the 1,000,000+ acres of land and air ranges and specialized test facilities at China Lake and the sea range and test facilities at Point Mugu. Many support functions, too, are provided through a single, central organizational element.

Within the overall NAWCWD structure are also the shore-station management and support functions of the Naval Air Weapons Stations at China Lake and Point Mugu and the weapon systems T&E and aircraft-operations and maintenance functions of the Naval Weapons Test Squadrons, which are part of the Naval Weapons Test Wing Pacific.
